immediately upon breach or anticipatory breach of contract.

ACCREDITATION SERVICES

Accreditation services are applicable only to certificates issued by the inspection body for standards that are defined in contract or Memorandum of Understanding between the inspection body and QABC and unless stated to the contrary QABC certificates signify that in the opinion of QABC and its servants the inspection body who is the subject of the registration certificate issued by QABC has demonstrated an acknowledgement of the benefits and desirability of being accredited with regard to the scope of activities and standards specified on the accreditation certificate and contract or Memorandum of Understanding. In issuing the certificate QABC is confirming registration of the inspection body in the QABC list of bodies. Inspection bodies are advised that full compliance with any standard referenced in the scope of certificates is not certificated as certain factors such as the sample nature of assessments and the compliance by the inspection body with their own procedures at times when QABC are not present and other matters is beyond the control of QABC. Inspection bodies are advised that the opinion of any other organisation or individual with regard to compliance with any standard that may be quoted in the scope of certificates or the inference of the term "accreditation" may be different to that of QABC and its servants but nonetheless compliance is not the subject of the certificate.

FURTHER ADVICE, AUTHORITY and ACCREDITATION

Inspection bodies and clients are advised to take expert advice when engaging accreditation services. The authority vested in QABC is that assigned to them by the inspection body in respect of the accreditation services contracted and no claim as to statutory, legislative, authority, prominence or right given by any other party unless specified by QABC. is claimed. Inspection bodies are instructed to avoid saying, implying or causing to be inferred that, under the auspices of QABC accreditation services they act with the support, approval or licence of the Government of the United Kingdom or of the European Commission or any other statutory or Government office of any nation or state.

LAW

These conditions and the accreditation services activities of QABC are subject to the laws of the United Kingdom of England. QABC shall not be liable retrospectively for consequences, costs or damages arising from changes or introduction of such laws or Government Instruments which may subsequently invalidate QABC accreditation services activities.

QABC require their registered inspection bodies to pay fees in advance or by an approved alternative method defined in writing, to maintain their registration and the validity of inspection certificates.
